CIGNA Choice Fund balance: =

If your remaining balance is greater than $0, this amount is available to be used for other qualified medical expenses during the plan year. If you do not have additional expenses that could be covered by your CIGNA Choice Fund, then this amount may be available to roll over to your next plan year. If your remaining balance amount is $0 or greater than $0, then you may not have any additional costs other than your payroll deductions (plan premiums).

If your remaining balance amount is a negative number, subtract this number from your plan deductible amount. This will provide you with an estimate of potential costs. You are responsible for all medical costs covered by your medical plan up to and including your deductible amount. After your deductible has been satisfied, your plan will cover services as indicated in your Summary of Benefits.
